Maharam introduces Ottoman Stripe by Paul Smith, the latest textile in a comprehensive series of stripes designed by the British fashion designer in collaboration with the Maharam Design Studio. Ottoman Stripe brings new dimension to a familial yet unique language of stripes by punctuating a lustrous worsted wool satin ground with intervals of horizontal texture in the form of a tightly woven ottoman rib weave.

All five variations are a vehicle for Smith's eclectic color combinations—in a vibrant spectrum ranging from primary to citrus to earth tones—with each one finding its own individual rhythm balanced between tradition and modernity in Paul Smith's signature "classics with a twist" style.

Among the most successful fashion designers in British history, Paul Smith combines a flair for eccentric detail with a dedication to the highest standards of craftsmanship. A decade-long association with Maharam has yielded a rich collaborative effort in textiles for seating and now wall application as part of Maharam Digital Projects. Smith's next project with the Maharam Design Studio, Big Stripe, is a study in color-blocking at an exaggerated scale—with a repeat of over seven feet—to be released in 2013.

Maharam offers a comprehensive collection of textiles for commercial and residential interiors.
